

Announcing! The second annual
Distinguished Visitor in Organismal Biology

Promoting integration, collaboration, and celebration of organismal biology across Cornell with an annual gathering each autumn

Dr. Nyeema Harris

*Knobloch Family Associate Professor of Wildlife and Land Conservation
Yale School of the Environment*

This year's theme: behavior, conservation, and urban ecology

EVENTS – PLEASE SAVE THE DATES – Sept. 9-10, 2022

Seminar: Fri. Sept. 9th, 11:30 G10 Biotech (coffee and snacks available before the talk)
Spatial ecology of carnivores across scales in a crowding planet

Lunch after the seminar: provided with registration here

Workshop for grads and postdocs led by Nyeema (Fri. 3pm, A409 Corson Hall, Whittaker Room):
Scaling up and out your academic impact by diversifying your scholarly portfolio. Register Here

Organismal Biology Symposium & Social, Sat Sept. 10th, 9-afternoon, Treman South Shelter
Talks (start at 9:30), lunch, natural history, and plenty of opportunity for socializing: Register Here

See updates and more information at: <https://organismal-biology-visitors.research.cornell.edu/>

Sponsored by the Endowment for Distinguished Visitors in Organismal Biology and participating departments: DNRE, EEB, ENT, NBB, SIPS events are open to all members of the Cornell community